This week...

This week has been Book Week – despite the snow stopping our usual parade yesterday, we all enjoyed dressing up as book characters and were able to look at everyone’s costumes in assembly. We had some great costumes this year – characters from classic children’s literature (Phyllis from The Railway Children, a host of characters from Alice in Wonderland); from perennial favourites (Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, The BFG) and more recently written stories (Gangsta Granny). Well done everyone! Our winners are listed overleaf.

Thank you to the parents who were able to come in and start the day by sharing a book in class this week. The snow interfered with this a little bit – next time I hope we get even more parents coming. It has been a lovely way to start the day.

Teachers have swapped classes to read stories this week as well, and we hope everyone has had a chance to enjoy reading and perhaps discover a new book.

Have a great weekend – keep warm!

Attendance to date: 95.8%
This has dropped since last week. Let’s get back to 96% next week.

Open Evenings – 3:45-5:00 pm in the classrooms.
Do drop in to have a look at your children’s books.
